

Industry-Specific Versions of the *Motivating By Appreciation Inventory

Many work settings have unique characteristics regarding scheduling, availability for interaction during the work day, position titles, and what action items are realistic (or unrealistic) given their work conditions. In response to requests from the organizations we serve, we have partnered with work groups, managers and employees to create industry-specific versions of the Motivating By Appreciation Inventory. Our goal is to make the inventory as practical and applicable to as many work settings as possible.

While the standard version of the inventory is well suited for most work environments, we have created specialized versions for long distance work relationships, school settings, medical settings and the military. (Another version is currently in development for church/ministry settings.)

It is important to note: If you want your staff to take an industry specific version of the MBA Inventory you must purchase a code for that industry. Codes provided with the book are only for the standard version of the inventory and cannot be converted or “traded” for industry specific codes. (We have created these specific versions in response to requests by our clientele and have chosen to provide these unique versions at no additional cost to the price of the standard version of the inventory.)

If you want to find out more information about a specific version of the MBA Inventory, go to the registration page of www.mbainventory.com . Choose the industry version you desire in the “Industry” drop-down box and a description of the version will appear. If you want to purchase registration codes for this version, click on the version and continue with the registration process. The codes you purchase will be linked to that version. When the code is entered by the user, it will take them directly to the items for that industry version. If you need assistance, email admin@mbainventory.com .
